GONZALES LEAVES MEXICAN CAPITAL TO BATTLE VILLA

Troops Left Behind to Hold City While Main Army Moves Upon Pachuca

CARRANZA OPPOSED TO VILLA

Report Is Current That Pachuca Is Occupied by a Force of Villistas

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Evacuation of Mexico City by the Carranza forces under General Gonzales was definitely admitted by Secretary of State Lansing this afternoon.

It was stated that the department's advice from Carranza sources were to the effect that 6,000 troops were left behind to hold the capital, but officials said they questioned if any as many as 600 really were left. General Gonzales led his men northward toward Pachuca, it was said, evidently to give battle to General Villa.

News of the Carranzistas' departure came from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City.

What effect the development would have on the question of American intervention or non-intervention nobody could say. It came so suddenly, just as officialdom was hoping conditions were near a peaceful settlement that the officials were not prepared even to express an opinion. State department dispatches today told of an increasing anti-Carranza activity in Mexico City.

It was reported, without confirmation, that Pachuca was occupied by Villistas. The Armenta faction which Villa claims favors him, was also said to be showing more strength about Jalapa than the Carranzistas would admit.

Villistas Report Evacuation

EL PASO, Texas, July 19.—Mexico City has been evacuated by the Carranzistas under General Pablo Gonzales, the unconfirmed report circulated by local Villista officials here today. The approach of an expeditionary column under General Rodolfo Ferro from the north is said to have caused Gonzales to give up control of the capital.

W. F. WOLFE IS SUGGESTED FOR SEAMAN'S PLACE

Judge C. W. Hunt Proposes Influential Local Democrat for Place on U. S. Bench

MEETS GREGORY'S REQUIREMENT

Attorney General Wants a Man Not Over 50 and Says Wisconsinite Will Be Chosen

"Why not William F. Wolfe for Seaman's place in the federal circuit court of appeals?" asked Judge Clinton W. Hunt today.

Judge Hunt said that in the discussion of the succession which immediately followed Judge Seaman's death, state leaders gave Mr. Wolfe's name serious consideration.

Judge Hunt's suggestion followed the announcement that Thomas W. Gregory, United States attorney general, said in Chicago yesterday that Judge Seaman's successor would come from Wisconsin and would "not be over 55 years of age."

Attorney General Gregory's western trip has to do with the matter of the judgeship, and his talk is taken as significant.

"Wolfe is 46," said Judge Hunt. "I see John A. Aylward is 54, Judge M. L. Lueck is 43, and Judge F. A. Geiger is 48. They are all candidates."

Attorney General Gregory's "age limit" of 55 years puts Judge A. L. Sanborn, whose friends were optimistic, out of the running, as Judge Sanborn is 65.

Has Davies Taken Hand?

A dispatch from Chicago said that Mr. Aylward has been recommended for the place by Joseph E. Davies, head of the federal trade commission, democratic national committee-man from Wisconsin and reported to be very close to President Wilson.

His recommendations, say Wisconsin democrats, carry great weight. If he is backing Mr. Aylward, as reported, and Mr. Aylward, by the way, is his former law partner and has already been appointed United States district attorney in the western district, Mr. Davies' candidate is only one year under the age limit.

Judge Martin L. Lueck, reported to have been recommended for the place by United States Senator Paul O. Husting, is well within the age period that Attorney General Gregory prefers. He is three years past the age at which the attorney general says a lawyer "finds himself."

The recent story from Washington to the effect that Senator Husting's recommendations would be given preference over those of Mr. Davies, will be tested by this appointment.

"There is no democrat in the state who could give the United States court of appeals better service than Mr. Wolfe," Judge Hunt said this afternoon. "When Judge Seaman died his name was among the first mentioned for the position, and he had strong support. He is one of the most influential men in the party in this state, and I am sure his candidacy would find willing and powerful friends."

ORDUNA INCIDENT MAY CAUSE MORE TROUBLE FOR U. S.

Verification of Report of Attack Would Add to the Already Tense Strain

ESCAPE DOES NOT ALTER CASE

Wilson Arrives in Washington and Confers with Lansing Relative to German Note

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Into the grave situation that has developed between the United States and Germany over the sinking of the Lusitania was thrust another issue on Saturday when it was revealed that the British steamer Orduna, carrying a score of Americans, had been attacked by a German submarine.

Should first reports of an attempt to torpedo without warning be borne out by the official investigation about to be instituted, it was indicated in official quarters that the United States probably would regard the incident as adding a grave element to the already strained relations between the two countries.

Although the Orduna escaped unhurt, this, in the view of officials, does not relieve the case of grave possibilities.

No Contraband on Board

The fact that a belligerent merchant ship bound for the United States with Americans on board and without arms and ammunition of contraband cargo—which has been the reason assigned as provocation for previous attacks—was assailed while its passengers slept convinced many officials that the theory that they had entertained of an actual change in the practice of German submarine commanders apparently had been dissipated.

One point on which the entire case so far as the United States is concerned may hinge is whether any attempt was made to halt the Orduna by the customary warning signals either by flag, megaphone or shots across the bow of the vessel.

Attack Is Unexpected

The captain and officers of the Orduna have stated that no warning or signal had been given when the torpedo was seen streaking through the water.

Uneasiness Is Increased

In official quarters news of the attempt on the Orduna came as a shock for it had been confidently believed as a result of the informal expressions of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador and press dispatches from Berlin concerning the care being exercised by German submarines that Americans on board passenger vessels, at least, would be safe from attack. The incident increased the general uneasiness which has been felt since the last German note failed to give assurance asked for by the United States.

Wilson in Washington

The German note, almost certainly will be laid before the cabinet on Tuesday.

President Wilson who arrived in the capital at 9:35 a. m. from Cornish, and Secretary Lansing were understood to have made quick work of it today. They were in conference at the White house for about an hour.

Not much but silence was obtainable after the talk was over, but an atmosphere of finality prevailed which left little doubt that the proposition had been whipped pretty well into the shape the chief executive and his premier advisor wanted.

Both were known to have had their ideas very thoroughly formulated before they met. Each had a tentative draft of a note. Evidently there was no material difference between them.

Submission of the matter to the cabinet, it was generally thought, would be more or less perfunctory. The members, it was said on good authority, were all unqualifiedly behind the president, and from any decision he and Secretary Lansing reached there was no prospect of a word of dissent.

Orduna Case Comes Up

"Will the Orduna case figure in the note, and if so to what extent?" was a question frequently asked.

The answer to the first clause of this question appeared to be the one thing which appears had not been settled. As to the latter clause, it was understood that the incident, even if discussed in the communication, would be referred to only casually as one of the instances of the sort of thing the United States can put up with no longer.

The Orduna matter, said Secretary Lansing is not officially before the government at all.

From this statement, it was thought, the case might be ignored.

Note Probably a Reiteration

In substance, there seemed to be no question that the note would simmer down to a reiteration of the last one. It was not believed it would be stiffer in tone or that it would contain anything in the nature of an ultimatum. It was believed, however, that incorporated in it, would be a paragraph calling Germany's attention to the fact that in her previous answers to President Wilson the main issue has been avoided and that the United States would like a direct answer.

FRANK NEAR DEATH WITH THROAT CUT BY FELLOW-CONVICT

Convicted Slayer of Mary Phagan Is Slashed with Butcher Knife While Asleep

GOVERNOR ORDERS PROBE

Change in Prison Management May Follow Crime; Assailant Denies Outside Instigation

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 19.—Leo M. Frank, whose death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan recently was commuted to life imprisonment, was attacked by another prisoner at the state prison farm here Saturday night and seriously injured by being cut in the throat.

Prison officials say the attack was made by William Green, who is also serving a life term for murder. Frank's recovery is said to be doubtful.

The attack on Frank, which was made shortly after 11 o'clock, was made from behind. The assailant

LEO M. FRANK

used a butcher knife. Frank's jugular vein was cut, but neither the spinal chord nor the windpipe were injured.

Attacked in Dormitory

The attack was made in the dormitory. All lights were out at the time. Green is alleged to have had the knife secreted in his prison clothing.

Condition Very Serious

"I guess they've got me," Frank is quoted as having said to the doctors when they reached him. He did not lose consciousness.

Frank was removed to the operating room in the hospital where the wound was dressed. The physicians had not succeeded in stopping the flow of blood at last reports. Prison officials said Frank had a chance to recover, but that his condition was very serious. Frank was brought to the state prison farm June 12, after a midnight trip from the Fulton county jail at Atlanta.

Frank hovered between life and death today.

During Sunday night he was but half conscious and raved frequently of the attack upon him by his fellow life prisoner, William H. Green. Today, however, his head was clear.

His wife was at his bedside. Doctors J. W. Rosenberg and Compton and other prominent Atlanta and Macon physicians attended him.

The wound in his throat, where Green slashed him, showed a slight infection from the rusty blade of the knife the would-be murderer used. The doctors admitted that blood poisoning was what they feared most. There was danger also, that the patient who vomits frequently would break the stitches in his neck and, with his jugular partly severed, they admitted the fresh bleeding almost certainly will kill himself in such an event.

The physicians complained, too, of the risk of infection from other patients, one of whom has typhoid, and arrangements were being made to move Frank from the infirmary to a private room.

His hands as well as his throat were gashed in his struggle with Green, but these wounds were of minor importance.

Green, chained to a concrete post, refused to talk today except to deny that he was influenced by anyone else and to assert that he had an "inspiration."

Green Thought Insane

His wife, an employee in a Columbus Ga., lunch room, asserts that her husband has been insane since childhood when he was injured by a blow on the head.

Members of the prison commission also inclined to the opinion that Green is a maniac.

"I wish I had more strength," declared Green to the warden this afternoon. "God is with me."

QUARANTINE MAY TIE LEGISLATURE FOR THE SESSION

Smallpox Case Results in Fumigation but Members Are Wired to Return to Task APPROPRIATION BILLS NEXT

Practically No Other Important Legislation Remains for Attention of Solons

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—The supposed delinquency of members of the assembly, which caused charges of intemperance last week, proves to have been a case of over-medication. It developed that when the smallpox scare appeared a physician of the "third house" advised that John Barleycorn is a potent antidote. A prompt "safety first" movement developed the symptoms that were so unfortunately misinterpreted in Assemblyman Spoor's diagnosis.

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—All thoughts of pending legislation were put away at the capital today for those of pending vaccination. The assembly is going to undergo a complete quarantine if the report of Dr. L. E. Spencer of Wausau, deputy state health officer, shows that Assemblyman C. F. Floger of Seymour is at his home suffering from smallpox. If the report of Health Officer Holz of Seymour is confirmed, every assemblyman who attending the sessions last week and every assembly employee, clerks and newspapermen, will be ordered vaccinated by Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health.

The most serious aspect of the situation is that it may end the session of the assembly. Assemblyman Floger is in no danger and has declared that he is feeling fine, but it is said that many of the members have expressed themselves unwilling to return and take any more chances. Dr. Harper has ordered a complete fumigation of the assembly chambers.

Work Can Proceed

If the decision of Dr. Spencer is adverse and the members submit to vaccination, it was said today by Dr. Harper that there is no reason why the lower house cannot convene at once. This week is one of the most important of the legislative session. The appropriation measures are expected to come in for consideration sometime during the week and a full attendance is greatly desired. The finance committee has almost completely finished its work, there being but a few things to consider on the university and other educational appropriations. The general finance measures have all been considered.

The only measures left to consider in either house introduced by the governor are the printing board bill and the central board of education bill. These measures must go through the assembly again before going to the governor. It is hardly thought that any substitute will be introduced for the education bill, as any bill but the Staudenmayer bill would not have any chance of getting by the senate. In fact, it is thought that the whole measure will be killed by the house. The governor has said that he will veto the Staudenmayer bill and so the whole affair is up in the air. The printing bill, as amended by the anti-administration men in the senate, will undoubtedly go through without opposition.

Laugh at Stemper Bill

All Madison is laughing over the latest bounce of the Stemper bill, which originally was intended to rip open the Baker liquor law. This bill has bounced from the assembly to the senate to the governor and back again so many times, and with new amendments hooked on each time, that no one recognizes it as the original bill. The latest move was made by Senator Bennett in the senate body on Friday. He introduced an amendment making the ratio of saloons per population one for every 500, but included the whole state in the bill. The governor has said that he will not stand for anything but a bill limited to Milwaukee, and it was so amended by the house. What will happen to it now no one knows.

THREE ARE STRUCK AND HURT IN TWO MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Mrs. John Weisman and Little Helen Falk Are Seriously Injured Internally

DRIVER RESISTS ARREST

George Childress Who Hit Mrs. Weisman Stages a Battle Royal with Three Policemen

Three persons were struck, two of them being thought seriously injured internally, in two automobile accidents last night. The driver of one of the cars is under arrest.

The injured are: Mrs. John Weisman, 47, 507 South Fifth street.

Helen Falk, 9, 1320 Kane street.

Margaret Falk, 7, 1320 Kane street.

Mrs. Weisman is at the St. Francis hospital with severe body bruises and probably internal injuries. The two little Falk girls are at their homes. Both are severely bruised, and it is feared that Helen has serious internal injuries.

George Childress, 514 South Seventh street, whose automobile struck Mrs. Weisman, is in a cell at central police station where he was lodged after a fistie engagement with three policemen and a fireman, in which three of the policemen were injured by his blows.

The police casualties are: Patrolman William Wermuth, finger bitten, and hit about the face; Patrolman John Wendling, face cut, and Patrolman Blaine Thompson, bruised about the face.

Mrs. Weisman, her daughter, Mrs. John Seitz, who resides with Mrs. Weisman, and three small children of the latter, were on their way home from a moving picture theater about 9:30 o'clock last night when the accident occurred. Mrs. Seitz had stopped to converse with a friend near the northwest corner of Third and Jay streets. She was wheeling her smallest child.

Mrs. Seitz' son, John, aged 3, was holding his grandmother's hand. The Childress automobile came speeding south on Third street, Mrs. Seitz said today, lurching from side to side of the street. As it neared the group standing near the curbing, Childress, who was driving, seemed to lose control of the steering wheel and the machine dashed towards the sidewalk.

Mrs. Weisman was the only one of the party struck. The little boy, whose hand she was holding, was just out of the path of the flying machine. Mrs. Seitz jumped and saved herself and her two children. As the car struck Mrs. Weisman it leaped over the curbing and crashed against a steel telephone post. It was smashed almost beyond repair. Mrs. Weisman was hurled against a brick wall.

Someone telephoned a hurr-up call to central station. Patrolman William Wermuth was dispatched in answer and found Childress sitting on the curbing near the Doering hotel. Another man, who Mrs. Seitz said was with Childress in the machine, was not found. The automobile had been dragged into the street when Wermuth arrived.

Childress Resists

Childress refused to go with the officers. He struck Wermuth, and was only made to come after a fight. As Wermuth reached Fourth and State streets, William Manning, fireman at No. 1 station, came to his rescue, and they dragged and carried Childress to police headquarters.

There Childress staked a battle royal, in which he nearly bit a finger before he was subdued. Patrolman John Wendling bore a bruised cheek and Blaine Thompson, night patrolman, who happened to be in the station, also had marks on the face from Childress' fists.

The St. Francis hospital ambulance was summoned, and Mrs. Weisman given first aid. She was only half conscious when her daughter reached her side. The machine had pitched her body against a brick wall.

One limb was at first thought to have been broken, but was found today to be severely wrenched. The worst injuries were sustained to the back and head. It will be several days before physicians can determine what internal injuries are to result from the blow.

Childress was recently charged charged with throwing a brick at John Smith, night clerk at the Burlington hotel. He is now awaiting a second trial in a northern Minnesota county for assaulting a thirteen year old girl. He was convicted at the first trial, and sentenced to a term of one year in Stillwater penitentiary, but was later accorded a second trial by the supreme court.

Childress came here about five years ago, and for a time was interested in evangelistic work. He was known to his co-workers in the evangelistic meetings at which he assisted, as "Billy Sunday the Second."

Police Blame Farmer

The two little Falk girls are daughters of Mrs. Olga Falk, 1320 Kane street. They were struck by the automobile of H. E. Kinney, a

A leather pocketbook containing $21 in money, with checks and receipts, as he was collecting mail from the government mail box on the corner of Third and State streets this morning. With the pocketbook was a Hotel Cook room key.

Upon investigation, police found that the key belonged to room six. Albert Cook, proprietor of the hotel said today that room six was occupied from Saturday night until yesterday afternoon. The hotel register bears the names of H. A. Primrose and wife, St. Paul.

It is the belief of Mr. Cook that the Primrose couple dropped their room key in the mail box when they found they had left without returning it, and the police do not connect them with the robbery.

Kirschner left the theater at the conclusion of the performance with a large crowd. Kirschner said he felt a tug at his clothing, but that he thought nothing of it until he missed the pocketbook.

The police were notified, but the identity of the pickpocket, the first to operate in La Crosse for several months, has not been learned.

RUSS CLAIM BIG GERMAN DRIVE IS CHECKED TO SOUTH

Mackenzien Is Temporarily Checked While Von Hindenburg Breaks Through Russian Lines

BATTLE FRONT OVER 1,000 MILES

Possibility of Evacuation Is Talked at Warsaw in Presence of Prodigious Assault

PETROGRAD, July 19.—Defeat of General Mackenzien's right wing in the great battle south of the Lublin-Cholm railway has at least temporarily checked the new German offensive on Warsaw.

Official dispatches today reported the Germans are rapidly shifting from all fronts to the support of Mackenzien whose center is endangered by furious Russian attacks. Both sides of the German wedge whose apex rests near Krasniotaf are being battered in by the reinforced Slav armies and continuation of the Russian advance threatens to cut off a large body of German troops.

Desperate fighting around Przasnysz and in the Riga region to the north has resulted in severe loss on both sides in the last twenty-four hours. The war office admits that the Russian retirement still continues at some sectors of this front, but military men here see no menace in von Hindenburg's offensive.

LONDON, July 19.—From the Baltic in the north to Bessarabia in the south the Germans and Austrians are battering the Russians' thousand mile battle front.

In the Baltic provinces General von Buelow, who is using large forces of cavalry, has crossed the Windau river and is moving eastward toward Riga.

In the Przasnysz district Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who is making his fourth attempt to reach Warsaw, has twice broken the Russian lines and compelled the defenders to retire toward the Narew river.

Simultaneously with these attacks, the Austro-German armies are on the offensive west of the Vistula river, in central Poland, and along the Dniester river in Galicia. As was the case in the drive through western Galicia, the Russians are fighting stubbornly, and on occasion are turning and delivering vicious blows at their opponents. But whether they will be able to hold their present lines is problematical.

May Evacuate Warsaw

The probability of the Russians having to evacuate Warsaw, which is threatened by von Hindenburg in the north and von Mackenzien in the south, is being seriously discussed. The possibility of a further retreat, however, is being calmly considered in Russia, where the old theory that the further the enemy is drawn into the country the worse it is for him, who buoys up their hopes of final victory.

For the present Berlin is the only capital celebrating and again Field Marshal von Hindenburg, whose success in the Przasnysz district is the cause of it, is being lauded.

MAKING THE RECORDThe warning served by the United States upon Great Britain that prize court rulings in regard to American ships have no standing in the eyes of this country except insofar as they are in accordance with the accepted rules of international law, formulated before the present war, is the link which makes complete the chain of our neutrality.Wholly apart from its effect on our relations with Germany, the caveat to England justifies itself by its surface intention. In insisting upon rights heretofore guaranteed to neutrals during wars, the United States is making another stand for the principle upon which our official attitude throughout the conflict has been based: that no nation has the right to change the rules to suit its convenience in the midst of hostilities, without regard to the effect upon non-belligerents.There is large importance in the actual application of this principle to our relations with Great Britain. There is nothing new or unexpected about it—the protest on the order in council took the same ground and forecasted the more explicit caveat —but coming as it does in the midst of our controversy with Germany over another angle of the same problem, it is proof patent that the president's neutrality proclamations at the outset of the war were not vacant forms but statements of intention to which the United States is prepared to adhere without deviation.We have been charged in Germany, although not officially, with a passive alliance with Germany's enemies. It has been said that we were more ready to enforce our conception of American rights on the Fatherland than on the allies. To Americans generally the accusation is not just. That it's injustice may now appear to the Germans is an eminently satisfactory corollary of the note to the British government. The indirect effect of the caveat may be of more profit to the United States than its direct bearing on our export trade.

Our experience with the belligerent powers is not such as to afford hope that the British practices to which we object in the caveat will be modified to any great extent. After two months in controversy with Germany over methods of submarine warfare we have elicited nothing but an offer to respect certain portions of our rights if we will purchase such respect on Germany's terms.
Previous objections to Great Britain's arbitrary maritime regulations brought us assurance, practically beside the point, that prize court procedure would be expedited. The British government ignored the fact that our protest was not against court delays so much as against unwarranted declaration that our merchantmen were trespassers on the open sea.

It thus appears that neutral rights are not considered paramount in Europe. We apparently cannot force consideration of them except by expressing readiness to come into the war. This country does not think anything of sufficient moment has arisen to warrant a fight. Therefore we can only write our objections into the record as a basis for demanding settlement after the war, leaving to Germany or England the onus of breaking relations if that shall be done.

It is not pleasant to be ignored.
But it is still more unpleasant—and unwise—to waste our young men in battle for anything less than an issue vital to the nation.

"THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

The unfortunate affair in the assembly in which there was criticism of the conduct of certain members alleged to have indulged themselves too freely in that which stings and is regulated, is not so much a case of individual delinquency as it is a condition of mind.

The "good old days" were days of license. The chief political qualifications was to be a "good fellow."
The lobby made for free indulgence in the cup as well as for women and cards.

And the "good old days" had come back. The assembly felt it, and let loose. It passed an amendment to the corrupt practices act whereby, among other things, there might be reinstated those interesting keg parties which were the glory of the old saloon campaign. Even the august senate sniffed it in the air, for recently the sergeant at arms of that organization reported to the president that a member whom he had been directed to bring into the chamber had sent word to the lieutenant governor that he "had gone to buy a drink."

Perhaps there may be a sobering sense of shock in the revelation of the senate during the past two weeks that we are not going back to the "good old days." Wisconsin is going forward.

'Twere almost like a dream.

We cannot think the time has passed until we see the levee Begin to turn; perceive the fields grow bright with golden sheaves
Old Time was never known to shirk,
No island ours, to note the work
That Nature's magic weaves.

A busy life must ever be a happy person's creed,
And time is short to those who pass their days in work and deed.
So, all unnoticed, Time will creep Upon us, till with joy we reap
The harvest of our seed.

Couldn't Hold His Breath
Pat and Mike were crossing the Delaware river on a ferryboat. They were watching intently a big dredging barge that was sending its mammoth scoops under the water and bringing up tons of mud.
"Pat," says Mike, "would yez loike to be a-workin' over there on that mud digger?"
"Yis," says Pat, "but, begorra, O'd hate to be one of the fellows under the water that's fillin' up them shovels."

Follows the Ponies, Eh?
One morning an Irishman was going about his usual day's work when he met a well dressed man who often tried to "take a rise out of him."
This worthy asked Paddy:
"What time does the post car pass here, Pat?"
"Just after the horses," was Paddy's cut reply.

He Should Worry

During the gunning season a beloved brother from a big city borrowed a gun and went in quest of wild ducks. He was successful beyond his wildest imagination, for he hadn't been rowing up stream more than three hours before he came upon a beautiful flock feeding in a little cove. Instantly the city man's gun went to his shoulder.

"Hey, there ye consarned rabbit!" came the expostulating voice of Uncle Josh. "What in the thunderation are ye tryin' ter do?"
"I am trying to shoot wild ducks," answered the city man in a cautious whisper. "Don't come any nearer, or ye'll scare—"

"Them ain't wild ducks," was the exercised rejoinder of the farmer.
"Them's tame ducks."
"That's all right, old fellow," returned the city man. "My wife won't know the difference."

Conservatism

A lady was engaging a cook, and,
having almost brought the interview to a successful conclusion, said:
"There is one thing, Mary; I do hope you are not wasteful."

"Wasteful, mum! Why Lor' bless you, I'd eat till I busted rather than waste anything."

He Knew

"Now, Willie," said the Sunday school teacher, turning to a small pupil, "can you tell me the difference between caution and cowardice?"
"Yes, ma'am," answered the little fellow. "When you are afraid it's caution; when the other fellow is caution."

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, apppet good, step

a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs.
A. F. KREAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflam-periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness,

Women who suffer from those dis-

Her Training Best

"Madam," said the man in the street car. "I know I ought to get up and give you my seat, but, unfortunately, I have recently joined the Sit Still club."

"That's all right, sir," replied the woman. "And you must excuse me for staring at you so hard; I am a member of the Stand and Stare club."

She proved herself so active and conscientious a member that the man began to feel uncomfortable under her gaze. Finally he rose and said:
"Take my seat, madam. I guess I'll resign from my club and join yours."

Doing Her Best

Mrs. Lambert laid down the evening paper, looked across the library table at her husband, and remarked:
"Really, some of the things you read seem almost incredible. After all, one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives."

"Never mind," replied the brute.
"That's certainly no fault of yours."

A COMEDY ROMANCE
By Earl Derr Biggers Author of Seven Keys to Baldpate.
Copyrighted The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Minot left that pink and gold parlor at sea in several respects. The theory was that he had played with this famous actress—wound her round his finger—cajoled a delay.
But somehow he didn't feel exactly as one who has mastered a delicate situation should. Instead he felt dazed by the beauty of her.

Still more was he at sea as to what he was going to do at four o'clock.
Of what good was the delay if he could not make use of it? And at the moment he hadn't the slightest notion of what he could do to prepare himself for the afternoon interview.
He must wait for Jephson's cable—perhaps that would give him an idea.

Minot was walking blankly down the street in the direction of his morning paper when a poster in a deserted store window caught his eye. It was an atrocious poster—red letters on a yellow background. It announced that five hundred dollars reward would be paid by Mr.
Henry Trimmer for information that would disclose the present whereabouts of the real Lord Harrowby.

As Minot stood reading it, a heavy hand was laid upon his shoulder.
Turning, he looked into the lean and hostile face of Henry Trimmer himself.

"Good morning," said Mr. Trimmer.
"Good morning," replied Minot.
"Glad to number you among my readers," sneered Trimmer. "What do you think—is the reward large enough?"

"Looks about the right size to me," Minot answered.
"Me, too. Ought to bring results pretty quick. By the way, you were complaining last night that you never heard of me until you came here. I've been thinking that over, and I've decided to make up to you in the next few days for all these lonely years."

But the morning had been too much for Minot. Worried, distressed, he lost for the moment his usual smiling urbanity.

"Oh, go to the devil!" he said, and walked away.

Lunch time came—two o'clock. At half past two, out of London, Jephson spoke. Said his cable:
"Know nothing of G. R. except that she's been married frequently.
Do best you can."

And what help was this, pray?
Disgustedly Minot read the cable again. Four o'clock was coming on apace, and with every tick of the clock his feeling of helplessness grew. He mentally berated Thacker and Jephson. They left him alone to grapple with wild problems, offering no help and asking miracles. Confound them both!

Three o'clock came. What—what was he to say? Lord Harrowby, interrogated, was merely useless and frantic. He couldn't raise a shilling.
He couldn't offer a suggestion.
"Dear old chap," he moaned, "I depend on you."

Three-thirty! Well, Thacker and Jephson had asked the impossible, that was all. Minot felt he had done his best. No man could do more. He was very sorry for Jephson, but—golden before him opened the possibility of Miss Cynthia Meyrick free to be wooed.

Yet he must be faithful to the last.
At a quarter to four he read Jephson's cablegram again. As he read, a plan ridiculous in its inefficiency occurred to him. And since no other came in the interval before four, he walked into Miss Rose's presence determined to try out his weak little bluff.

The Gaiety lady was playing on the piano—a whispering seductive little tune. As Minot stepped to her side she glanced up at him with a coy inviting smile. But she drew back a little at his determined glare.

"Miss Rose," he said sharply, "I have discovered that you can not sue Lord Harrowby for breach of contract to marry you."

"Why—why not?" she stammered.
"Because," said Minot, with a triumphant smile—though it was a shot in the dark—"you already had a husband when those letters were written to you."

"Well, he had done his best. A rather childish effort, but what else was there to attempt? Poor old

What kind of roofing shall I buy?
The General says: You can buy a cheap unguaranteed roofing and save a few dollars in initial cost—or you can pay this slight difference and get a roofing guaranteed by the world's largest manufacturer of roofing and building papers. The final cost is what counts and you'll find it cheaper in the long run to buy

Roofing

This roofing is the highest quality possible to make and it is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, for 1, 2 or 3 ply respectively. When once laid, Certain-teed must remain intact at least for the period of the guarantee and the guarantee is a definite insurance against all roofing trouble.

Roofing that is cheaper than Certain-teed is cheaper in quality and is not guaranteed by a big mill and best responsibility. When once laid, Certain-teed will have to pay the double expense of laying a new roof all over again.
Certain-teed Roofing is for sale by dealers everywhere at reasonable prices.

"Nonsense," said the Gaiety lady, and continued to play.
"Nothing of the sort," Minot replied. "Why, I can produce the man himself."
Might as well go the limit while he was about it. That should be his consolation when Jephson lost. Might as well—but what was this?
Gabrielle Rose had turned livid with anger. Her lips twitched, her china-blue eyes flashed fire. If only her lawyer had been by her side then! But he wasn't. And so she cried hotly:
"He's told! The little brute's told!"
Good lord! Minot felt his knees weaken. A shot in the dark—had it hit the target after all?
"If you refer to your husband," said Minot, "he has done just that."
"He's not my husband," she snapped.
Oh, what was the use? Providence was with Jephson.
"No, of course not—not since the divorce," Minot answered. "But he was when those letters were written."
The Gaiety lady's chin began to tremble.
"And he promised me, on his word of honor, that he wouldn't tell.
But I suppose you found him easy.
What honor could one expect in a Persian carpet dealer?"
A Persian carpet dealer? Into Mi-not's mind floated a scrap of conversation heard at Mrs. Bruce's table.
"But you must remember," he ventured, "that he is also a prince."
"Yes," said the woman, "that's what I thought when I married him.
He's the prince of liars—that's as far as his royal blood goes."

A silence, while Miss Gabrielle Rose felt in her sleeve for her handkerchief.
"I suppose," Minot suggested,
"you will abandon the suit—"
She looked at him. Oh, the pathos of that baby stare!
"You are acting in this matter simply as Harrowby's friend?" she asked.
"Simply as his friend."
"And so far—only you know of my—er—ex-husband?"
"Only I know of him," smiled Minot. The smile died from his face.
For he saw bright tears on the long lashes of the Gaiety lady. She leaned close.
"Mr. Minot," she said, "it is I who need a friend. Not Harrowby. I am here in a strange country—without funds—alone helpless. Mr.
Minot, You could not be so cruel."
"I—I—I'm sorry," said Minot uncomfortably.
The lady was an actress, and she acted now, beautifully.
"I—I feel so desolate," she moaned (dabbing daintily at her eyes. "You will help me. It can not be. I am mistaken in you. I thought —did I imagine it—this morning when I sang for you—you liked me —just a little!"
Nervously Minot rose from his chair and stood looking down at her.
He tried to answer, but his voice seemed lost.
"Just a very little?" She, too, rose and placed her butterfly hands on his shoulders. "You do like me —just a little, don't you?"

LIVESTOCK SHOW PROSPECTS FADE

Small Appropriation Not Enough and the Badger Breeders Are Discouraged

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—Livestock breeders of the state are greatly disappointed over the fading prospects for an exhibit at the San Francisco exposition which will present the state's greatest industry fittingly. Due to the smallness of its appropriation as compared with other states, and rigid economies that were found necessary, the state commission to the exposition felt obliged to reduce its fund of $10,000 for a livestock display by half. This is far too small an amount necessary to reimburse Wisconsin breeders who planned on sending their choicest stock to San Francisco to compete with the best from other states and countries.

A short time ago a bill was introduced to appropriate $5,000 to aid the Wisconsin stockmen in sending a representative exhibit to the exposition. The finance committee on Friday recommended that it be indefinitely postponed. It is feared that this turn of affairs will so discourage the breeders that they will drop the whole matter.

FISH CREEK MAN INJURED BY AUTO ON SPARTA STREET

Eben Jones Steps Into Crowded Thoroughfare on Saturday Night and Is Hit by Machine

CHAUTAUQUA BEATS SUNDAY "LID"

Bible Classes of the Sparta Churches Decide in Favor of Sunday Entertainment

SPARTA, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—Stepping from the sidewalk into Water street Saturday night, Eben Jones, a resident of Fish Creek, was struck and severely injured by an automobile. The machine was being driven by Charles Belkey, who was prevented from seeing Jones by several rigs and automobiles which lined the pavements.

A merry-go-round was operating in a lot near where the accident occurred and the crowds of people who stood around it and the confusions, made it hard for Mr. Belkey to thread his way through the street.

Mr. Jones was badly bruised about the upper part of his body and was temporarily paralyzing his lower. He was taken to a hospital immediately.

Chautauqua on Sabbath

The Enterprise Bible class of the Congregational church, and the Crescent Bible class of the Methodist church have decided that there can be no harm in allowing the chautauqua which opened here Saturday to operate on Sunday, and so yesterday the program was given as planned.

A majority of those present at the "Law and Order" meeting of Sparta citizens recently came to the conclusion that Sunday was not the best day for a chautauqua.

Big crowds are in attendance at every program held so far, and the week will undoubtedly prove a success.

War Office News of Fighting

PARIS, July 19.—Thrown back with heavy losses the German crown prince's army has not renewed its attempts to pierce the French line in the Argonne since last Tuesday, said an official statement given out here today.

The war office, in this connection, said that the German claim that 7,000 prisoners had been taken in the Argonne battles, was ridiculous.

During the past month, the war office said, not more than 7,000 soldiers have been reported "missing" on all fronts.

STATE INSURANCE SAVING IN WAY TO BE ABANDONED

Ekern Points Out Result of Bill Prohibiting State from Carrying Building Insurance

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—The assembly voted Thursday to repeal the state fire insurance fund law for public buildings. It tacked on an amendment prohibiting the state to carry any insurance at all on its properties. This was adopted.

Commenting on this action, former Insurance Commissioner Ekern said today:

"This bill was not given a hearing. I had been promised a hearing, and the bill was reported out of the finance committee by its author, Mr. Kubasta, without giving me any notice. This fund has been in existence twelve years. During this time it has received in premiums $140,521, and paid in losses $380,206. The expenses have been $7,564, which includes all inspection or ratings and a special investigation of fire dangers at the state charitable and penal institutions. The annual premiums for stock fire insurance companies for the same insurance would have been $734,368. The saving to the state in reduced premiums and accumulated surplus is thus over $325,000.

"It is the stock fire insurance interests who are served by this bill. They fear the showing made by the state fund, and even if they can't get the insurance under the amendment, they hope to fix that up later. It means a difference to the state, if it insures with the stock companies, of $56,000 a year in premiums, and favored insurance agents want $35,000 in commissions to divide.

"If the state should carry no insurance it would mean that wherever there was a serious fire the institutions would be crippled and the legislature would have to be called together in special session to provide the money for the rebuilding. Instead of as now, where 90 per cent of the loss is under the present law immediately available from the state insurance fund for rebuilding. This bill should be defeated."

If you are young enough, there is always some occasion which seems to warrant a celebration.

CHICAGO, July 19.—State Attorney Hoyne today prepared papers to petition authorities at Buffalo, N. Arieszewski is the man who gave himself up to the Buffalo police, who said the man told them his conscience tortured him so he was compelled to confess the so-called Blue Island murders.

NEW ICE HOUSES MAY BE CHANGED

Local Railroad Men Want Storage Which Burned Rebuilt in More Convenient Place in East End

Plans for reconstruction of the two Milwaukee railroad icehouses, which were totally destroyed by fire at noon Saturday, have not been given out by road officials, and it is thought highly improbable that the damaged storage will be rebuilt at its former location. Local pressure is being brought upon the company officials to have new ice houses built in the east yards, as more convenient.

Chief Carpenter O'Brien arrived from Milwaukee to supervise the work of rehousing the ice which was unmet after the fire.

It is understood that a temporary roof will be built over the ice which is now in the sheds, approximately 2,500 tons. The new sheds will be completed before fall.

Workmen are burying the ice in sawdust from the Arctic Ice and Fuel company. Ice will be brought in from stations of the road to supply the local needs in case there should be a shortage of ice as a result of the flames Saturday.

WOULD STRICTURE RECALL METHODS

Too Much Leeway Permitted Now Senate Committee on Corporations Believes

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—In the belief that too much leeway is offered for the recall of public officials in commission governed cities, the senate committee on corporations has offered an amendment to a bill amending the recall law. The amendment requires petition for a recall to be specified rather than general. The original bill requires that the petitions be filed with the county judge instead of the city clerk, and that the names of signers who are qualified voters at the time of signing the petition shall be counted whether such names appear on the registry list or not. With the amendment the bill is recommended for concurrence.

The same committee reported for non-concurrence an assembly bill providing that bids for advertising and publication of proceedings in cities of the second and third classes, and in special charter cities having between 10,000 to 50,000 population, shall be invited from all newspapers published regularly at least once a week in such city.

With an amendment the Skogmo bill abolishing the board of public affairs and creating a state council composed of the elective state officers and heads of commissioners is recommended for passage by the corporations committee. The amendment grants an appropriation of $20,000 annually.

The judiciary committee of the senate recommended for non-concurrence the assembly resolution condemning the employment of investigators by boards, commissions or institutions which they have investigated and requesting the dismissal of such investigators. Senator Huber dissented. Concurrence was recommended for a bill providing a system for absent voting.

find "yours"

Get all the smoke-pleasure you pay for. Find the right cigarette—a SENSIBLE one that fits your own likes and dislikes.

It may or may not be Fatima

—but this will help you find it.

Tastes differ—in fashions, foods and pretty girls. Also in cigarettes.

A cigarette that started out to please every man's taste would end up by pleasing none.

Most of us like our cigarette smoke deliciously cool and refreshing. The Mexican likes his hot and dry, with a nice little peppery sting in it.

Some men like a cigarette wholesomely, fragrantly mild. Others of us hunt for a cigarette almost as heavy as a black cigar.

Most of us want an "easy" cigarette—a SENSIBLE one, so that no matter how steadily or how many we smoke, we'll feel as fit as a fiddle. Other men, though, don't care about that. They smoke only a few—so they want a kick like a mule's in each puff.

All of us want our smoke "full-bodied"—it must satisfy that smoke-hunger. But the cigarette that just fills the bill for you may not do at all for your next-door neighbor.

Somewhere—among all the brands on the market—is the one just-right cigarette for YOU!

Maybe it's the very one you have now in your pocket—but are you SURE? Maybe it's some entirely "different" cigarette—it may or may not be Fatima.

But "find it!" Until you do, you're cheating yourself out of a whole lot of smoke-pleasure. Also you're wasting some money.

How to Find "yours"

To avoid blindly trying too many different cigarettes, ask yourself, first of all, this question:

"Just what do I like in a cigarette?"

If you smoke only a few every day, you may prefer a cigarette which is rather rich or heavy and "oily." Or you may like one which has a rather strong "oriental" taste with a pungency almost like perfume. Or you may want a cigarette with that noticeably "sweetish" Egyptian flavor. But if you smoke quite often—if you would like to smoke whenever you feel like it and without any effect on the tongue or throat or any fear of a heavy or "heady" feeling afterwards—then you should choose some cigarette such as Fatima, a cigarette composed of all-pure tobaccos of considerable aroma, mellowed by being aged and carefully blended to produce a fragrant and wholesomely mild, yet "full-bodied," smoke. And the smoke must be noticeably COOL. For otherwise your tongue or your throat will soon signal you to stop smoking so often.

If you will ask any Fatima smoker, he will tell you that Fatimas never make him "feel mean"—no matter how many he smokes.

That is why Fatimas are considered the most sensible cigarette by such a large majority of smokers. And that is probably the main reason why hardly any Fatima smokers ever switch! They like a sensible cigarette—and one with a good, pure taste to it.

But the Taste is up to You

All cigarettes are pure, but when it comes to the taste, nobody can help you choose. You simply have to decide for yourself.

Of course, Fatima's taste may not appeal to you. But most men who try Fatimas like the taste so well that they seek no further—otherwise Fatimas could never have won and held their enormous and growing leadership amounting to over one and a half BILLION cigarettes a year.

The one purpose of this advertisement is to ask you in a fair and square way to give Fatimas (20 for 15c) a good trial. If they don't happen to suit your taste, you'll quit smoking them of course. But if you like Fatimas as well as MOST men do, you'll be mighty glad you read this advertisement—and ACTED ON IT!

Below are two simple tests which you can easily make, and which may help you find your sensible cigarette.

It may or may not be Fatima. But be fair to yourself and find "yours."

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.
Largest cigarette manufacturer in the U. S. as shown by Internal Revenue reports.

Two TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the smoker. But there are other qualities that you should look for in the cigarette that you are going to stick to for your steady smoke. Here are a couple of tests that may help the average smoker to choose more wisely between different kinds of cigarettes.

The first test is for coolness, which means more comfort to the throat and tongue. Light any cigarette. Draw in a cloud of smoke—a small, ordinary puff in your mouth for a few seconds. Let it "float" around against your tongue and throat. Now blow out the smoke. If the cigarette contains a high grade of mild tobacco leaves, combined in just the right proportion, it will always feel cool and smooth both to your throat and to your tongue.

On the other hand, if the proportions are not right and if the cigarette contains inferior grades of tobacco or hidden strands of rank, oily leaf, you will feel a snipping sting at the tip of your tongue or that "sandpaper tickle" in your throat.

Test number two—How do you feel after smoking all day?

If the tobacco in the cigarette include a correct proportion of mild grades—and if all of the various grades have been properly mellowed by age—and if they have been so blended as to bring out the best qualities in each of the different types of tobaccos, you will be able to smoke practically whenever you feel like it through the day without feeling any effect from it. But with another cigarette in which the blend is less skillful, even though the tobaccos are of the highest grade, you will find along towards the end of the day that you are likely to have that feeling of having "smoked too much."

Clip out these tests and try them on Fatima

SNOWBALL FIGHT ON MOUNTAIN TOP

SEATTLE, Wash., July 19.—Led by the delegates to the Imperial council meeting which yesterday closed its forty-first annual session in this city, several thousand Shriners today snowballed each other on the slopes of Mount Rainier, crawled over glaciers, explored ice caves, discovered new wild flowers and even scaled the summit of the great peak. Loaded with red fez wearers, special trains left Seattle shortly after sunrise and arrived at the Rainier National Park during the morning. After luncheon at the Inn they went out on the side of the mountain under the care of trained guides, visiting Paradise Valley and several of the noted glaciers.

Tonight the easterners will sleep on the mountains and tomorrow afternoon will return to Seattle. While a portion of the delegates and Shrine members were making the junket to Mount Rainier, several thousand more boarded an ocean going steamer and cruiser for the entire day on Puget Sound, going west to the foot of the Olympic mountains and the strait of Juan de Fuca, and north as far as the Canadian boundary.

Several bands accompanied the travelers and played at Everett, Anacortes, Bellingham and other cities visited.

AGED MAN TELLS STORY OF WRECKED LIFE TO BURDICK

Says He Deserted Family Near Tomah Thirteen Years Ago and They Have Disowned Him

MET GIRL ON TRIP TO IRELAND

Irish Maiden Who Thinks Herself His Wife Left at Poor Farm While He Revisits Family

How Jerry Daley, formerly a prosperous farmer near Tomah, and head of a happy family, deserted his family for an Irish colleen whom he met while on a visit to the "Old Sod," was told to Sol Burdick, poor commissioner today, following his arrest here for being drunk.

Daley is seventy years old and half paralyzed. He took to drink here, he told Burdick, when his first family still on the farm near Tomah, disowned him.

When he was arrested here, Daley broke down and voluntarily told Burdick and the police his story. Kate, the girl he brought with him from Ireland, is at the poor farm. She believes herself to be his wife, Daley told the authorities. He said he had lived with her and supported her for thirteen years, since he brought her from Ireland.

"She is innocent," he told Burdick. "Don't do anything to her. This will break her heart."

Daley said that he had grown homesick for his wife and children in Wisconsin, and that he came here with Kate—to see them. He left Kate at the poor farm, for he was almost penniless. Then he visited his family on the farm near Tomah. They refused to have anything to do with him. He came back to La Crosse and attempted to drown his troubles. His arrest followed.

PEAVEY IS PEEVED AT GOVERNOR AND QUILTS FAIR BOARD

Washburn Man Demands His Name Be Withdrawn; Charges Philipp with Bad Faith

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 19.—Following an arraignment of Gov. E. L. Philipp and the administration forces at Madison for their attitude toward the state fair board, and an open refusal to take the message of the governor that he wished the present board to carry out the business of the 1915 state fair because the governor "has already broken three promises in regard to the fair," H. H. Peavey of Washburn tendered his resignation to Secretary O. E. Remy yesterday at a meeting of the board held at the Republican house. Peavey's resentment grew out of the fact that the governor requested the present board to proceed with its program, although handicapped, in spite of the fact that before it could finish its work it would, under the new law, be obliged to turn its task over to the new one-man board. Thus it would be responsible for the success or failure of an enterprise over which its authority had ceased.

"Why was not the law amended to extend the present commission's authority over the complete fair?" was in effect Mr. Peavey's inquiry.

The executive was greatly incensed that such a thing should have occurred, and a general shake-up in the prison management is predicted.

Mrs. Frank was allowed to be with her husband and his own family physician, Dr. Joseph Rosenberg, was attending him.

The preliminary investigation of the case, according to messages from the prison farm at Milledgeville, indicated that Green's assault was not instigated from outside the prison, but was his own idea. There were suggestions that the man was, at the time he received his life sentence for murder, resulted in a verdict that he was sane.

It seemed conclusively established that the knife with which he slashed Frank was one he was using in slaughtering hogs on the prison farm Saturday and hid in his clothing before going to the dormitory for the night.

SALVATION FOR ENGLAND LIES IN MINES CONTROL

Official Opinion Is That the Government Should Take Over South Wales Operations

MINERS MAY FAVOR MOVE

Idea Is to Remove Bone of Contention That Owners Are Getting Rich on War Prices

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, July 19.—That the gravest crisis England has faced since the war can be averted only by the government taking over the South Wales coal mines, was the growing conviction in official circles today when the cabinet met in special session to discuss the great coal strike.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the situation, every member attended today's cabinet session.

Government investigators believed that the miners will not object seriously to the temporary nationalization of the mines. They pointed out that this would remove the chief bone of contention—the belief on the part of the miners that the owners are piling up huge fortunes by selling at "war prices." Unless this is done a settlement appears remote, the investigators frankly told President Runciman of the government board of trade today.

In some quarters it was suggested today that the government force the mine owners to grant the full demands of the men, pending future negotiations while the men return to work. Several cabinet officials, however, rejected this idea on the ground that it indicated governmental weakness.

Thousands of miners poured into Cardiff today where the miners' executive council was meeting. Dispatches from Cardiff said the majority of the men stood firmly behind their leaders in the negotiations with the government.

The coal situation is rapidly becoming serious with the South Wales mines remaining idle. The available supplies are diminishing rapidly every twenty-four hours. The railways and industrial concerns already have taken steps to conserve their supplies and dispatches from industrial centers today said the production of war munitions is gravely jeopardized.

The closing of the mines cuts off a daily output of hundreds of thousands of tons.

Minister of Munitions David Lloyd-George will leave for Cardiff tonight to make a personal appeal to the Welsh coal miners, his fellow countrymen, to return to work and prevent a slackening of the production of war munitions.

This announcement was made this afternoon, following a special session of the cabinet at which most serious international crisis of the war was discussed.

NAMING OF NAVAL BOARD MEMBERS IS AGAIN POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Changing his mind again today, Secretary Daniels said he would wait until Tuesday before announcing who would be asked to serve with Thomas A. Edison on his new naval board of invention and development.

It was understood the delay was to enable him to receive answers from men he had asked to take places on the board.

One of those from whom he was understood to be especially anxious for a favorable reply was Henry Ford. Of Orville Wright's selection there was no doubt.

FLOATING THEATER PASSES

NEW YORK, July 19.—Speculation in the "war order stocks" became fairly unmanageable in the early stock exchange trading today.
Prices for some of these shares were bid up five or six points on an exceptionally large volume of trading and advances of 2 to 3 per cent were numerous. While this was happening the majority of standard investment shares were declining, and in point of fact, the whole speculative movement in these industrial stocks was unwholesome and unsettling.

It undoubtedly reflects with force the admitted existence of such factors as very easy money, abundant available bank resources, financial confidence increased by the conciliatory attitude of Germany, and absence in the case of these stocks, which are not held in England, of the repressive influence which resumed liquidation of foreign holdings would exert.

The advance in open market money rates at London this week to five per cent—which in Lombard street would always be considered an unusually high level—may possibly introduce a new turn in the complicated economic movements of the war. Nothing has been more abnormal, since the huge expenditures of the belligerent states got fairly under way, than the low money rates which have prevailed upon their markets.

DANIELS SUGGESTS LOOSENESS FOR NEW INVENTION BOARD

Secretary Would Avoid Red Tape in Not Fixing Membership to Certain Number

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The new naval board of invention and development probably will not consist of a fixed number of members, it was understood at the department today.

Secretary Daniels' idea was said to be that a certain looseness in the body's organization was one of the things best calculated to save it from entanglements in the red tape which he has hardly tried to conceal he considers the navy department's worst handicap.

As stated by the United Press on Friday afternoon, announcement was expected today of several more members of the board. The plan, however, was to add others from time to time, as new men attain prominence in lines which render them available or as fresh problems arise which call for experts in fields of study not completely familiar to those already included in the organization's personnel.

CUNARD 'ORDUNA' ESCAPES GERMAN 'U' OFF LIVERPOOL

Submarine Is Evaded After Exciting Chase in Which Guns Are Opened on Ship

NEW YORK, July 19.—A German submarine attempted to torpedo the Cunard liner Orduna, shortly after she left Liverpool, according to Baron Rosenkrantz of Denmark, one of the passengers aboard the big steamer which reached here today.

The submarine was sighted at 6 o'clock on the morning of July 9, the baron said, and chased the Orduna for nearly an hour, attempting to get close enough to fire a torpedo. Seeing that she was out-distanced, the U boat fired six shells at the liner, but none of them took effect.

On her last trip from New York the Orduna carried a large cargo of war munitions for the allies. It was reported her departure had been "tipped" and that German submersi-bles were lying in wait for her.

INSTITUTES SUCCESS

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—The success of the farmers' institutes in the summer season just closed is indicated in a report filed with Dean H. L. Russell by Supt. C.
P. Norgard. Seventy meetings were held in sixteen counties, with a total attendance of 5,626 an average attendance of 84. The total cost of the meetings was $363.32 or $5.05 per meeting. The total number of meetings of all kinds during the year was 287, the number attending was 60,121, and the average per session 209.

THIRD PRIZE WINNING LETTER IN "BUY AT HOME" CONTEST

The third prize of $5 was awarded to Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, 1606 Berlin street, whose letter appears below:

In looking over your advertisements in the evening paper, I endeavor to pass my opinion on the "Buy at Home" subject.
By trading here you help to build up the city; and another thing is, if you do not happen to have the money the merchants of La Crosse will trust you, while by sending away and not having the money you will not receive your goods. By sending to mail order houses you do not know what you are getting until you get it; so it is by far better to go and see what you are buying.
By buying at home the money is kept in your own town. It increases the value of the city at large, and consequently increasing the value of your own property.

In case of sickness or death your home merchant will help you and will even see you laid in your last rest, while the out of town merchants may have seen only your handwriting on the order blank. Probably the out of town merchant don't care if you live or die just so they get what is coming to them. So I strongly believe in the "Buy at Home" subject.

MISS MARGARET FITZPATRICK.

1606 Berlin street, La Crosse, Wis.
An order has been mailed to Miss Fitzpatrick for $5 worth of merchandise good at the store of any merchant whose announcement appears in the "Buy it at Home" page which runs in the TRIBUNE Monday and Thursday.

Editor Tribune: I wish, through your paper, to thank all concerned in the late "Buy at Home" contest for the fairness with which the contest was conducted. I wish to thank the committee who gave me second place and also Mr. N. Nustad of 310 Pearl street for the promptness in delivering the goods which your letter authorized me to call for.

To those who did not obtain a prize I would say, do not be too sorely disappointed but watch for the next chance and try again, as repeated failures will surely bring success sometime. Truly yours, E. H. CLEVELAND.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

BY J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—If reports from London are true that Rumania has refused to permit further transport through her territory of war munitions destined for Turkey, the fall of Constantinople has been brought appreciably nearer. Apart from the entrance of the Balkan countries into war, nothing could be of greater help to the allies than the action of Rumania is alleged to have taken.

Since Turkey's participation in the war, Austria and Germany have kept their ally well supplied with guns and ammunition. These shipments have been made over the railway that runs from Hungary through Rumania into Bulgaria and then to Constantinople. Pressure has frequently been brought to bear on both the Rumanian and Bulgarian governments by the allies to prevent the transport of war supplies, but without avail. Bulgaria, in particular, has turned a deaf ear to the plea that munitions sent through her territory into Turkey might be used against the Bulgars if eventually the Sofia government decided to enter the war with the allies.

Rumania's change of policy, if a change really has been made, is unquestionably for the purpose of bringing greater pressure to bear on Austria-Hungary over the question of a territorial cession to Rumania for her continued neutrality. Rumania is now demanding a neutrality payment just as Italy did and the statesmen at Vienna are utilizing once more their old policy of delay.

By isolating Turkey, Rumania may hope to expedite a decision in her favor at Vienna.
Otherwise, the Turks must inevitably succumb to the Anglo-French campaign on the Gallipoli peninsula.
Even German genius for organization cannot create munitions factories in Turkey sufficient to provide all the war supplies necessary for the defense of Constantinople. It is absolutely necessary for the Turks to import a large part of their munitions if they are to continue the war.
A sparing use of ammunition has lately been noticeable on the part of the Turks. Their country attacks are growing less and less on the Gallipoli peninsula while the campaigns against Egypt and in Persia and the Caucasus have been either abandoned or greatly curtailed. Even with the supply road to Austria and Germany open, every shell must be made to count. With the road closed, Constantinople's doom cannot be far off.

THAW FASCINATED BY THE GAYETY OF ATLANTIC CITY

Harry Acts Like a Child in Satisfying Nine-year Thirst for the Life

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 19.
—The whirl and gayety of Atlantic City's social season proved more of a lure to Harry K. Thaw today than did the prospect of going home to his aged mother in Pittsburgh, and the slayer of Stanford White planned to loiter here over the week-end.

Thaw was up early today. He was like a child on Christmas morning at the prospect of assuaging his nine year thirst for gayety. Crowds, the lights, and the beautiful gowned women strolling along the beach seemed to fascinate him.

In Thaw's party, which is quartered at the Hotel Dennis, are his two private detectives and a half dozen newspaper men. The party attracted much curiosity as it strolled about this noted summering place.

According to Thaw's present plans, he will spend the week-end here and probably start for his Pittsburgh home early Monday morning.

Thaw ate breakfast in his room at the Dennis hotel today, thereby striking a cruel blow at several hundred summer resorters. They had arrived in the dining room early, had swallowed extra cups of coffee, double portions of eggs and had braved the glares of the waiters—all for a look at Thaw. When the management passed the word around the dining room, the curious paid their checks with visible indignation and stamped out.

Thaw wasn't as curious to see the crowds as the crowds were to see him. He slipped out of the hotel unrecognized before breakfast, took a jaunt along the board walk, duck-ed the growing throng around the hotel and slipped back into his room.

TURKS SHOT FOR INSTIGATING PLOT AGAINST GERMANS

ROME, July 19.—Fifty Turkish officers in the garrison at Adrianople have been shot for instigating an anti-German plot, according to Salo-nika dispatches printed by the Tribune today.

Rome newspaper recently printed reports that the Turkish troops had evacuated Adrianople, fearing Bulgarian attacks. The Tribune's dispatch is therefore contradictory.

SUBMARINE GETS ITALIAN CRUISER

VIENNA, via Berlin Wireless, July 19.—An Austrian submarine yesterday morning torpedoed and sank the Italian cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi, south of Razasa. The cruiser sank in fifteen minutes.

The Giuseppe Garibaldi is listed by some naval registers as an armored cruiser, by others as a battleship. She was built in June, 1899, and displaced 7,234 tons. Her dimensions were: Length, 344 feet; beam, 59.6 feet; maximum draught about 25 feet.

CASHIER SURRENDERS.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Max Palens-ke, assistant cashier of the Drovers' National bank, patronized by stockmen and farmers throughout the middle west, today surrendered himself to United States Commissioner Foote. A warrant was immediately issued. The bank officials want Palenske to explain if he can, an alleged shortage of $30,000 in the bank's accounts. Palenske is 30 years old and married.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract.
Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active.
Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

SOLDIERS TO PLAY ATHLETES SUNDAY

pected to accompany their team

TWO BOYS DROWN.

DALLAS, Texas, July 19.—In an unsuccessful effort to rescue her small son and nephew from drowning, Mrs. John G. Fernandez, a prominent banker's wife, jumped into the Rio Grande at Brownsville three times yesterday afternoon. The boy's body was recovered. Mrs.
Fernandez escaped.

Blue laws in the east force the fans to hold their breath another twenty-four hours over the Phils and Cubs.

Boston at last has resumed her place at leading the uncouth west, Chicago being the goat. Eminent fitting, eh, what?

William Carrigan, however, shot his big gun in his endeavor to reach the top. The White Sox can comfort themselves they won't have to face Joe Wood the rest of the series.

Walter Johnson apparently can do other things besides pitch. Pinch hitting in the ninth, Papa Johnson drove in the tying run against the luckless Indians.

The Senators showed a lot of gameness at Cleveland at that. In the first game they won a victory by shooting two runs across in the thirteenth, in the second they won by scoring three in the ninth. That is the stuff that gave Boston a world's series in 1914.

Shaw of the Kawfers was the only bloke to clout a homer yesterday.

"Shucks," said Mr. McInnis. "I'm going to show this guy Cobb some real hitting." Whereupon he made two doubles and three singles in five times up. Cobb trailed with only three hits.

The Tigers, however, had reinforcements and won 11 to 7. Familiar figures, those?

George Stovall's Packers regained the top by licking the Newarks twice while the Buffeds were handing Chicago a trimming.

CLOTHIERS LANSING
GAME POSTPONED

The failure of long distance telephone to reach Lansing caused the postponement yesterday of the game scheduled between the Clothiers of La Crosse and the down-river team. Manager Bartel was advised that a heavy storm had struck the town and to save expenses declined to make the trip on the "W. W." Theodore Söle, only member of the team to make the trip, had a hard time making a get-away when he appeared at the hall park without the rest of his mates.

THEY ALL PITCH
AGAINST SPARTA

Practically every member of the W. B. U. Athletes had a fling at the hurling job yesterday when the Sparta White Sox were defeated 10 to 5 at Sparta. Copey started the game and retired after his teammates had run up ten runs. Sparta made five runs off the men who then took turns on the mound.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Red Sox 6; White Sox 2
CHICAGO, July 19.—Erratic playing behind Faber cost Chicago first place on Sunday, when Boston was handed a 6 to 2 victory.

Chicago made five errors of commission and one error of judgment and all these plays resulted in runs for the visitors. In the opening inning after two men were out and two were on bases, J. Collins mis-judging Lewis' fly and it went for a double, giving Boston two runs.
There after four of the visitors reached first on fumbles, three of whom scored, while another boot allowed a Bostonian to reach third and score on a sacrifice.

Wood pitched a great game after the first inning, when Chicago saved themselves a shut out with a double, a base on balls and two singles giving them two runs. Only one other hit was made off Wood. His support was perfect, Barry, Lewis and Janvrin cutting off several hits. The

HERE'S A RECORD

CHICAGO, July 19.—E. Sanborn, veteran baseball reporter, today claimed the world's record for "covering" the national pastime. Yesterday's White Sox-Red Sox battle was the 2,000th big league game Sanborn has reported since he joined the Chicago Tribune staff. He doesn't know how many he covered before that.

Water-Bearing Rocks.
All rocks contain some water, but some, such as the granites, carry only an approachable amount. Sandstone, on the other hand, has an absorptive capacity of a gallon or more water to the cubic foot of rock and is the best water bearer of the solid rocks.

TWELFTH STRAIGHT
WON BY NELSONS
TRAINMEN VICTIMS

Clothiers Win with One Score, Sickles Finishing a Tight Mix for Evenson

Woll's base on balls paved the way to victory for the Nelsons yesterday at League park, and Beranek's bat closed the deal when the Trainmen were defeated 1 to 0. The thing happened in the eighth inning after the usually fatal seventh was passed and at a time when it was evident the team first to score would leave the park victors. The win was the twelfth straight for the Nelsons and their third of the season over the Trainmen.

Nally, who was wild throughout the game, although he threw a good game despite that, passed Woll in the beginning of the next to the last frame. The runner went down to second on Evenson's sacrifice and was out at third when Roeder bounced to Nally. Roeder stole second and came home when Beranek singled.
Cully was caught off the bag a second later when he was unable to get his left leg on the sack. The score he drove in was sufficient to bag the game for his team.

A scare was thrown into Nelson rooters when Freehoff, first up for the Trainmen in the last of the eighth, sent out his second double of the game. Evenson, who usually plays the outfield, and who had hurled a good game up until that time, was taken out by Comeau in favor of Sickles. Smith disappointed the fans when he fled to Rochelt and Davis grounded out, Roeder to Woll.
Bobby made a neat scoop of the ball at a hard angle and retired his man at first. Sickles helped in the last out and was given credit for the win when he threw out his rival at first.
Freehoff without doubt played the best individual game of the afternoon. Besides hammering out two doubles, he robbed Melnert of a hit and the Nelsons of a score in the third inning when he nailed a short drive.

Smith probably stole a run from his team when he was thrown out at third in the second when trying to stretch his two-bagger for another base. Johnson went in as an emergency hitter in the seventh. The box

THIRTEEN STRAIGHT
GO TO THE SAINTS

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 19.—The Saints won their thirteenth straight game yesterday, when they bagged both ends of a bargain bill. This makes a new record for the Amer-ning streaks. The Saints rode rough shod over the formerly powerful Spiders, and captured the first contest 7 to 3, and the second one 6 to 1.

REALTY MEN TO MEET

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(Special.)—Plans for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers, to be held at Ashland July 28, were announced by the secretary, F. A. Kremer, today. Expectations are held for the largest state convention of real estate agents ever conducted. Many delegates will motor to Ashland from downstate points. The Ashland chamber of commerce is arranging automobile trips to nearby points.
The Bayfield fruit district and the steel center near Superior will be visited. Boat rides on the bay are also included in the entertainment.

Every head of the household would like to have his wife worry about him, but she seldom does.

The vexations of a man's collar are augmented in the summer time. It is bad enough to have to wear a starched collar anyway, and it's still worse to wear one that has too much starch in it or not enough to make it serviceable and comfortable. Our collars are laundered just enough for hot weather comfort, appearance and wilt defying.

OPENING PLAY IN TENNIS TOURNEYS IS STAGED TODAY

Westby and Bloom Scheduled to Ply the First Match in City Tourney

Julian Bloom and Gerald Westby were scheduled this afternoon to play the first match in the third annual city tennis tournament held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Interest in the tourney is running high. With twenty-six matches scheduled for the week, the result of first play is expected to have much to do with determining the winners in the two classes.

Officials of the tourney are busy arranging the schedule for next week which is expected to call for three or more matches for each player that the rotation scheme may be completed in the stipulated three weeks.

The usual method of elimination has been departed from in the present tourney, games won and lost to be the sole basis of standing. The system is meeting with the general approval of the players.

The sanding and rolling of the normal school courts has been received with much satisfaction. The majority of the matches of the tourney are expected to be played there.

Children Need Special Attention.

That special medical attention should be given to children in the four or five early years before school begins is asserted by Dr. David Forsyth, an English physician, whose views are published in a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. Doctor Forsyth declares that medical inspection of elementary school children points to a widespread physical deterioration during the first four or five years of life, which leaves the majority of children with serious but preventable defects.

Felt She Had Kick Coming.

"Are you the editor of the paper?" asked the lady with the drab spats, calling, "I am," replied the man with the poised pencil. "Well, I called to ask you if you wouldn't get larger type. My name was in your paper five times last week and a neighbor of mine told me she never saw it."

LUMBERMEN OPPOSE CUTTING PRICES

Men Meeting Before Federal Trades Commission Dislike Existing Conditions

CHICAGO, July 19.—Cut throat competition and unnecessary price cutting were denounced today by a committee representing the National Association of Lumber Manufacturers testifying before the federal trades commission. The lumbermen suggested remedial measures. A representative of the forestry service was present to urge conservation measures.

The commission will investigate alleged labor-capital combinations to exclude all outside building materials and to consider also evidence gathered by United States Attorney C. F. Cline, which caused the return two months ago of one hundred odd indictments against officials and electrical contractors under the anti-trust law.

The commission meets here again tomorrow. On Wednesday it will go to Detroit; Thursday to Cincinnati, and Friday to Indianapolis. The Chicago hearing will be resumed next Monday. Later, hearings will be held in cities west to the Pacific coast.

New York Stocks

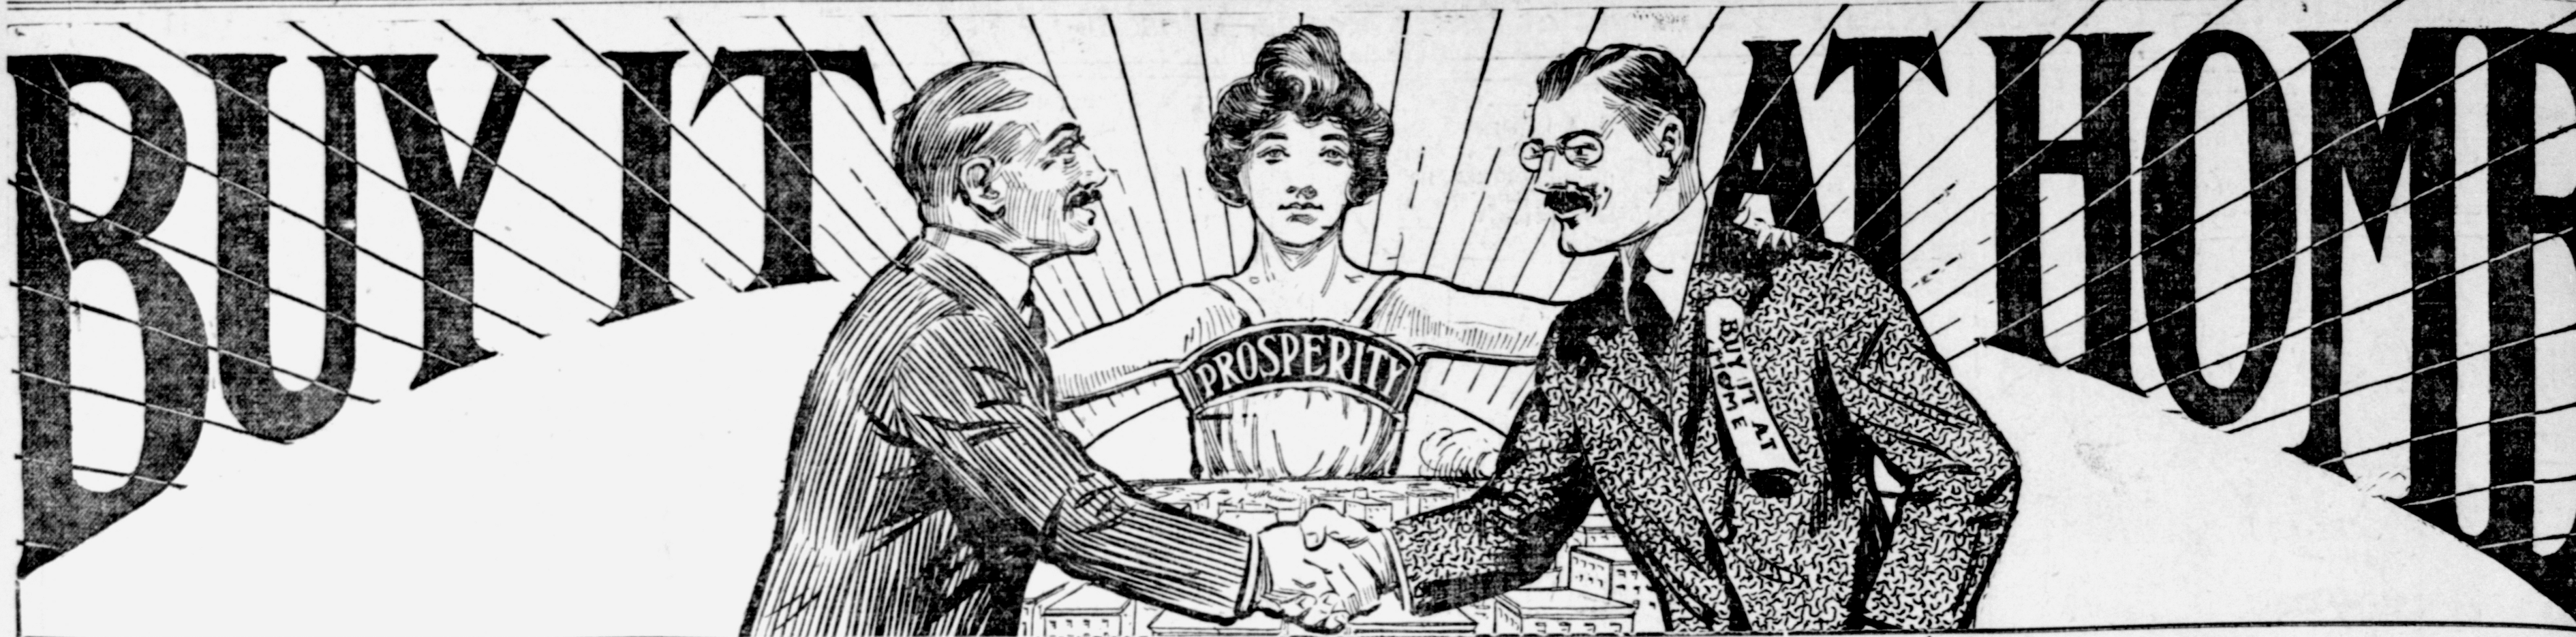

NEW YORK, July 19.—United States Steel opened ¾ to one point down at 63½ to 64½ on the Stock Exchange today. Crucible Steel, which made a spectacular rise last week was off 1½ at 46. Other leaders were fractionally down, Republic Iron and Steel being an exception, selling up ¼.

Crucible Steel dropped with a thud to 41, down 6½ during the first few minutes' trading.

Rails failed to bring out stock and the market advanced sharply, traders covered, railroads being especially strong. St. Paul advanced to 83; Southern Pacific to 85 and Reading sold at 148½.

with us, means good dependable merchandise at a fair price. It means just and fair treatment to all our customers in even the smallest detail. It costs you nothing to compare our goods with the ordinary, inferior made "to make money" kind oftentimes offered as quality merchandise. Do not be deceived by fictitious prices. It's the goods you buy after all—not the price. So when you see the word "SERVICE" think of us; and when you buy your clothing and other merchandise here you are assured the highest standard and best goods at a reasonable price.
